

Seated October 2014

EXCEPTIONAL MIDDLE-GRADES 'SCHOOLS TO WATCH' ANNOUNCED

Contact: Diane Lauer, 970-222-6422 dianelauer@mac.com

Fruita, CO – Basalt Middle School has been recognized as a 2015 Colorado Trailblazer Schools to Watch for the second time. The Colorado Association of Middle Level Education recognizes Basalt for challenging students to use their minds well, being sensitive to the unique developmental needs of early adolescence and providing every student with a high-quality learning experience. Basalt Middle School is one of 100 schools that will be recognized nationwide at the National Schools to Watch Conference on June 27, 2015 in Washington, DC.

“Basalt demonstrates that high-performance is the result of intentional focus on the whole child. A personalized environment that cultivates persistence, self-inquiry, goal setting within a healthy, social-emotional, and intellectual environment results in a dynamic school where students thrive!” explained Diane Lauer, State Coordinator of the Colorado Schools to Watch program. “Basalt recognizes the importance of meeting the needs of all of their students and ensuring that every child has access to a rigorous, high-quality education.”

Selection is based on a written application that requires schools to show how they met criteria developed by the Forum. State teams organized by the Colorado Schools to Watch (www.coloradoschoolstowatch.com) program conduct site visits in order to affirm that they have indeed met the rigorous requirements of the award. These teams observe classrooms, interview administrators, teachers, and parents, review achievement data, suspension rates, instructional quality, and student work. Schools are recognized for a three-year period, and at the end of three years must repeat the process in order to be re-designated. Two additional Colorado schools will be redesignated this year as Colorado Trailblazer Schools to Watch: Fort Morgan Middle School (Fort Morgan School District) and Wellington Middle (Poudre School District). One school, Westview Middle (St. Vrain Valley School District) has been designated for the first time.

"These Schools to Watch are indeed special; they make education so exciting that students and teachers don't want to miss a day. They have proven that it is possible to achieve a high degree of educational excellence, and any middle-level school can truly learn from their example," said Dr. Deborah Kasak, Forum executive director. "We are pleased that our Schools to Watch program have shown that schools can meet high academic expectations while preserving a commitment to healthy development and equity for all students," Kasak said.

Launched in 1999, Schools to Watch began as a national program to identify middle-grades schools across the country that were meeting or exceeding 37 criteria developed by the Forum. The Forum developed a web site (www.middlegradesforum.org) that features online tours of schools, as well as detailed information about the selection criteria used in the recognition program.

Nineteen states are currently involved in the program and the addition of these 4 schools raises

Joseph Cushing
President

Todd Wynne
Past-President

Martin Pearson
Metro Region

Mary Jones
Western Slope

Kim McLachlan
Secretary

Sheila Pottorff
North Central

Earl Thomas
South East

Michelle Saller
School Site Visitation Chair

Diane Lauer
Schools to Watch
Coordinator

the total number of Schools to Watch to over 350 nationwide.

The National Forum sponsors the Schools to Watch state program with the support of members, the National Association for Elementary School Principals, the National Association of Secondary School Principals, the Association of Middle Level Education, Learning Forward, and the State Schools to Watch programs.

The National Forum to Accelerate Middle-Grades Reform is an alliance of 65 educators, researchers, national associations, and officers of professional organizations and foundations dedicated to improving education in the middle grades. (www.middlegradesforum.org)